The Interworld family is strongly committed to improving the lives of children in extreme poverty. Since we opened our office in the Dominican Republic in 2010, we have focused on helping children through more food and better education. In partnership with our customers and suppliers we have used donations and company profits to expand the size of one local school, along with building a new school in Nicaragua.

Our charitable initiatives encompass providing food and financial support to families and students, so that schools can focus on education, while imparting values and life principles. Currently we have extended our initiatives beyond the Dominican Republic and Nicaragua into Medellin Colombia where we sponsor thirty children to advance their life skills and enter the professional workforce regionally.
